

Congressional Art Contest

Every spring, Chris invites high school students from across the 5th District to submit their artwork to be judged in the annual Congressional Art Competition. With help from a panel of arts community judges, Chris selects one gifted student's artwork to be sent to Washington D.C. to hang in the passageway of the United States Capitol for an entire year. The winning student is flown to Washington D.C. with complimentary air travel to participate in a special ceremony at the Capitol. Finally, the 5th district's winner is eligible for $1,500 per year scholarship to the Savannah College of Art and Design.

Are you a student or teacher interested in submitting artwork for the 2012 competition? Contact Chris' New Britain office, 860-223-8412.
