WASHINGTON, D.C. - Today, Congressman Murphy announced his intentions to ensure that the United States Postal Service (USPS) finds a permanent solution to housing the Hawleyville Post Office. Health and safety concerns at the current facility have caused the USPS to examine a relocation of its operations. Local residents have contacted Murphy's office to express their concerns that the USPS should be coming up with a long-term solution to this matter that ensures the continued existence of a Hawleyville Post Office.

"For generations, Hawleyville residents have been served by their local post office. The news of a temporary location and the uncertainty surrounding a permanent solution to this problem has caused residents understandable concern. I am well aware of this issue, and will pursue a solution that satisfies the town's residents," said Murphy.

In meetings and conversations with the Congressman's office, the USPS has indicated its appreciation of the town's attachment to the Hawleyville Post Office and their intention to find a permanent resolution to the situation. In the meantime, the USPS is attempting to obtain a ground permit for temporary trailers.

"I intend to hold the USPS to their assurance that they intend to work with the community to find a suitable location in Hawleyville," said Murphy.
